THE BILLPOSTERS TABOO OBSCENITY

Will Refuse to Put Up Suggestive Pictures After August.

Tower At Jamestown Exposition to Be Taller Than the Noted Eiffel Tower At Paris.

A NEW THEATER DECISION

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—Sensational, vicious and suggestive billboard pictures were condemned by a resolution adopted here at the quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the associated billposters and distributors of the United States and Canada. The resolution instructs members to refuse, after the expiration of this year's contracts on August 1, 1906, to post such pictures and titles as may be declared objectionable, members who fail to act according to the terms of the resolution rendering themselves liable to a penalty.

Will This Bill Pass?
Washington, March 9.—The Randall antipass bill was reported in amended form to the entire house committee on judiciary by a subcommittee, and was made a special order for Friday morning, when the full committee will consider it. The bill prevents all federal officers from accepting railway or Pullman passes, and also forbids their acceptance of franks from telegraph, telephone or express companies.

To Be Taller Than Eiffel Tower.
Norfolk, Va., Mar. 9.—It was announced from the general offices of the Jamestown exposition company today that a tower, exceeding in altitude the celebrated Eiffel tower of Paris, would in all probability be erected on the exposition grounds. A cablegram has been sent to London for plans and specifications. The tower would carry upward of 10,000 incandescent lights and could be seen for miles at sea at night.

Sunday Theatre a Necessity.
Terre Haute, Ind., Mar. 9.—A jury of business men acquitted the manager of the Lyric vaudeville theatre for giving a performance on Sunday. The performance was admitted, but the defense contended that the theatrical vocation came within the limit of being considered a necessity.

Water Was His Undoing.
Tuscola, Ill., Mar. 9.—John Lindsey was drowned in a watering trough. He was a well-known farmer and Prohibition leader in Central Illinois.

The Breath of Life.
It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora Stephens, of Port Williams O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by W. B. McPherson, druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CURT JETT'S TRIAL.
Second One Begun at Cynthia's Today.

Cynthiana, Ky., Mar. 8.—Second trial of Curt Jett for the murder of James Cockrell, at Jackson, began yesterday afternoon. Jett is under a death sentence for the crime and is also serving a life sentence for complicity in the assassination of James B. Marcum. A large number of witnesses are in attendance and it will probably take some time to secure a jury.

Well Worth Trying.
W. H. Brown, the popular pension attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt., says: "Next to a pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills." He writes: "they keep my family in splendid health." Quick cure for Headache, Constipation and Biliousness 25c. Guaranteed at McPherson's drug store.

Narrow Escapes

Alpine Climber Hung For Hours Suspended From Cliff.

Tourist Who Lay on a Ledge For Six Days—Tiger Felled by a Looking Glass—Imprisoned on Chimney.

Surely one of the most terrible experiences which ever happened to man is that which befell the Hon. Gerald Fitzgerald while on Monte Rosa, in Switzerland, in attempting to descend to Macugnaga. He had left the Margherita hut and was tied between two Swiss guides named Alier, father and son, says Pearson's Weekly. On the way down they were passing along a dangerous edge when Mr. Fitzgerald and the younger guide fell over. The rope held, however, and young Alier succeeded in dragging himself up over the face of the rock. After he had saved himself he returned to the Margherita hut, from whence he telephoned to Alagna for immediate assistance.

It was impossible for Mr. Fitzgerald to raise himself, as he had broken his right leg. There he remained for seven long hours, supported by a rope and suspended over a precipice at a height of 10,500 feet. Could a more horrible situation be imagined? There he had to remain all those weary hours hanging between life and death.

It was the old guide who succeeded in supporting Mr. Fitzgerald the whole of the time. Old Alier stood motionless for seven hours with his legs propped against a bowlder, the whole weight of Mr. Fitzgerald being upon his body. Eventually, when help arrived, poor old Alier appeared utterly exhausted by the vast strain put upon him. Eight guides and two physicians conveyed Mr. Fitzgerald to Alagna. It is needless to say that all the inhabitants warmly cheered old Alier as he came down the mountain.

A tourist named Gregorex was on the edge of a precipice a much longer time than this, but he was not suspended in midair. Mr. Gregorex was found on a narrow ledge of rock on the Emir, where he had been six days. Of course he had been the whole of the time there without food or drink, and if he had moved he would have fallen down the side of a precipice 600 feet deep.

There has been built recently a great factory chimney in connection with Lowfield mill, Belfield, near Rochdale. One day three workmen, named Walter Dempsey, Joseph Evans and Samuel Bardsley, were engaged in winding up some of the material for the top when it became entangled in the scaffolding and would move neither up nor down. Thus it was that the men were effectively imprisoned in their aerial position at the top of the chimney.

Eventually the Rochdale steeplejack, Joseph Smith, was summoned to the scene, and he devised a method of escape. Acting upon his advice, one of the men tore his shirt into strings and tied the pieces together to form a rope. One end of this shirt rope was let down, and to it was tied a good stout rope, which was hauled to the top of the chimney and made secure. After this a saddle was fastened to the end of the rope, and it was hoisted up, and eventually the men were lowered safely to the ground after four hours' imprisonment.

Some little time ago the Keighley police were attracted to a pawnbroker's shop by the shouts of a man. They found that the man had the upper part of his body protruding through the glass panel of a door. When the officers asked the man what he was doing he replied that he was wedged in and could not get out.

Then the constables tugged and pulled and jerked and pushed at the human carcass fastened to the door, but it was firmly wedged. It was necessary to break in the door before they could possibly release the man. When the policeman got inside the house to break the door he found a considerable number of articles of wearing apparel already packed in readiness for removal.

This surely was one of the most comical captures of a burglar ever known. When upon trial, he appealed to be sent to Armlay jail instead of having to lie upon the bare boards of Keighley police station. He told the magistrate, amid a considerable amount of laughter, that for a long time he would not like to have to sit and sleep on bare planks.

Lance Sergeant Murphy of the Singapore water police has had a remarkable adventure. It was set him to arrest two notorious gamblers who had taken refuge on a barge moored off the boat quay. Immediately the men sighted him they dived under water. Sergeant Murphy, however, was not baffled, for he dived in after them and found the two criminals in the slimy mud at the bottom of the harbor. There he seized hold of them and brought them to the surface. He swam straight away to the adjoining steps with his captives and took them off to the police station.

A blind boy who was left in charge of a baker's horse and van near the Clifton suspension bridge at Bristol had a most marvelous escape from a cruel death. The horse walked straight over the cliffs and fell to the bottom, a distance of 200 feet. The boy himself tumbled into a tree, whence he was afterward extricated unhurt, while at the foot of the cliff the cart was found smashed to atoms. The miraculous escape does not end here, as it was found that the pony was uninjured.

The stout old ship Fannie Kerr has had a miraculous escape. She was abandoned on fire in the Pacific ocean in May of last year while on a voyage from Newcastle, New South Wales, to San Francisco. A short time ago this ship was drifted ashore at South cape, Formosa. She must have been a derelict vessel for over twelve months, and during the time she was abandoned it is calculated that she drifted nearly 4,000 miles. This is not bad for a ship that had been abandoned as unworthy.

A remarkable escape from death is that of a girl who was admitted to the St. Bartholomew's hospital in Rochester, England. This female patient was the daughter of a local police officer, and by some accident she had a needle thrust right into her heart.

The remarkable operation was performed at the hospital, as a result of which, after a considerable amount of suffering on the girl's part, the needle was successfully removed from the heart.

At the thirty-first congress of the German Chirurgical association, held at Berlin, a very remarkable patient was introduced to the congress. This was a young man who, attempting suicide, shot himself with a small caliber gun. The bullet had penetrated his heart, but the wound had healed up very rapidly. The Rontgen rays were turned upon the man's heart, and the bullet was discovered in the right ventricle, bouncing about with each beat. The man was for all the world as though his heart were a rattle. After some time the bullet gradually became incased, and now it moves rhythmically with the heart, without causing the slightest inconvenience to the patient.

Equally remarkable was the temporary escape from death of a domestic servant named Ellen Kiosky. Some years ago she was accidentally shot near Northampton, and the bullet lodged in her head, but could not be located. Afterward the girl said she thought the bullet had moved its position. Later she died. An inquest was held, and it was proved that death was caused

THE TIGER CAME ACROSS A LOOKING GLASS, through inflammation of the brain, the bullet having been in the young woman's brain the whole of the time.

An almost miraculous escape from death was that of two little children in a bungalow in Bengal. A tiger rushed out of the jungle and broke in after the children. As he rushed at them he came across a looking glass, and there he saw what he took to be another tiger rushing at him. Furiously he attacked his reflection, smashing the glass into thousands of pieces. The noise and excitement so frightened him that he fled into the jungle, leaving the children unhurt.
